

We understand that undergoing diagnosis and treatment for cancer or blood disorders is a scary thing. There are many options for you to find support and guidance, but please beware that some may be inaccurate or outdated.

Support services can range from information to financial assistance to support groups.

Please ask your Physician for advice or start with one of these resources we consider to be trusted for information and support services. Only some of these might apply to your situation, so do not hesitate to ask for additional resources.

National Cancer Institute

www.cancer.gov

800-422-6237

CancerCare

www.cancercare.org

800-813-4673

Cancer Support Community, Bay Area

www.cancersupportcommunity.org

888-793-9355

Women's Cancer Resource Center

www.wcrc.org

510-420-7900

Leukemia & Lymphoma Society

www.lls.org

800-955-4572

American Cancer Society

www.cancer.org

800-227-2345

CaringBridge

www.caringbridge.org

American Society of Hematology (Blood Disorders)

www.hematology.org/Patients/Groups.aspx

CancerNet

www.cancer.net

Sickle Cell Disease Association of America

www.sicklecelldisease.org

800-421-8453

COPD Foundation

www.copdfoundation.org

866-316-2673

These are just some of many support and education options available. We do not necessarily endorse any specific program, site, or information. Please consult with your Physician before accepting any advice from an outside agency or website.